Maj. James V. Heidt of the Thirty-Sixth Infantry Will Likely be Here on Next Monday

COMPANY ROSTER COMPLETED

Shows 150 Men Have Qualified and Are Ready to be Mustered Into Federal Service

HOPES FOR GOOD SHOWING

Capt. Kiplinger Believes Weekly Drill Will Help to Bring Company B to Top Rank

The roster of Company B. First separate battalion, Fourth Regiment, has been completed by Capt. Kiplinger and the next step will be the federal inspection, preparatory to being mustered into federal service. The company has 150 names on the roster, but will lose several men in case the members of the company now at Fort Harrison get commissions in the new army.

Maj. James V. Heidt of the Thirty-sixth Infantry has arrived in Indiana to start an inspection of the companies of the new Fourth regiment. Major Heidt will likely be in Rushville Monday to inspect the local company. Other companies of the regiment are located at Decatur, Huntington, Indianapolis, Marion, Bedford, Evansville, Columbus and Madison. A machine gun and supply company are also in Indianapolis.

Capt. Kiplinger hopes the local company will make a good showing at the inspection. He is confident that Co. B will be in the top rank as the weekly drills have put the company in good shape.

It was reported from Washington a few weeks ago that the national guard companies of Indiana and Kentucky would probably be mobilized at Anniston, Ala. Information contained in a dispatch from Washington today is that the guard companies of the two states will probably be sent to some place in Texas. There will be three guard mobilization centers in Texas.

The roster of the company follows:

John H. Kiplinger
Allan H. Blackledge
Floyd O. Gallimore
Harry R. Fritter
William L. Christopher
Milton F. Barnard
Willard Buell
Lawrence A. Fisher

FEDERAL AGENTS GOING TO RICHMOND

Expected to Arrive Today to Investigate Alleged Improper Methods of Registration

COMPLAINT BY STATE AGENT

(By United Press.) Richmond, Ind., July 7.—Agents of the federal government were expected today in Richmond to investigate reports of alleged improper methods of preparing Wayne county's list of men registered for the selective draft. The investigation is the result of a complaint by Jesse Eschbach, state conscription agent who complained to the federal authorities against the method employed by M. W. Kelley, Wayne county clerk in preparing the draft lists.

Kelley refused to renumber the cards serially as requested and is alleged to have told Eschbach that "if he wanted it done do it yourself." Eschbach has asked that the cards be renumbered in the proper manner.

FIVE ROUTES TO BE DISCONTINUED

Besides 2 Rushville and 1 Arlington, Carthage and Glenwood Routes to be Abandoned.

ROUTES TO BE RENUMBERED

John Holmes, Carrier on No. 27 at Glenwood, Transferred to Vacancy on No. 13 at New Salem.

It has been definitely established that five rural routes will be discontinued in Rush county, beginning a week from next Monday when the new order reorganizing the rural route system of the county goes into effect.

In addition to the two routes out of Rushville and one out of Arlington being abandoned, route No. 27 out of Glenwood and route No. 22 out of Carthage will be discontinued.

John Holmes, carrier on route No. 27 from the Glenwood office, will be transferred to what is now route No. 13 out of New Salem where there is a vacancy due to the resignation of a carrier. It is not known what disposition will be made of Will T. Hill, carrier on route No. 22, whether he will be relieved or transferred to another route. The carrier on the Arlington route which was discontinued, John Alsmann, will be transferred to Centerville.

When the new order takes effect the routes will not be numbered as they are now—beginning with No. 1 out of Rushville and running consecutively through the twenty-four routes in the county. Instead the routes leaving each postoffice in the county will be a separate unit. For instance, New Salem routes Nos. 13 and 14 will be New Salem routes Nos. 1 and 2. The same rule will apply to every office in the county.

All of the mail carriers in the county are familiarizing themselves with their new routes so that they will be able to carry them the first day after the new order takes effect. Each carrier has the routing of his new route so that he can cover it before time for carrying the mail over it.

Postmaster Hunt has given all carriers out of the Rushville office a printed slip which he asks them to leave in every box which is changed to a new route. The patron is notified of the new number of his route and is requested to notify all newspapers and magazines they receive and persons with whom they correspond. The slip says:

Commencing July 16, your mail will be delivered by Rushville, Ind., Route No. —. If your address is changed, notify your papers and magazines and also all persons with whom you correspond, giving them your old address and also the new address. Do this at once so that your mail will not be delayed.

Also fill out the slip which will be put in your box in a few days, giving all names of your family and persons receiving mail in your box. This is important because the carrier must know at once the names of his patrons. Return slip to the mail box next day after you receive it.

TO BE HELD AT M. E. CHURCH

Community Festival Arrangements For Tuesday Night at Arlington

Arrangements were completed yesterday afternoon for the next community social which will be held in Arlington next Tuesday on the lawn of the Arlington M. E. church. An attractive program is being arranged which will include music by a band and an address by some prominent Rushville man. An effort is being made to take the largest crowd of Rushville business men which has ever attended one of these socials. The next social will be held in Richland, probably week after next.

MEN OF MILITARY AGE RESPONSIBLE

It is Up To Them to Ascertain Whether or Not They Have Been Conscribed for Service

ARE URGED TO BE ON ALERT

Requested to Find New Number. Watch For Numbers Drawn and Report for Examination

BY WEBB MILLER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, July 7.—America's men of draft age will be responsible for ascertaining whether or not they are drawn for conscription. Hence the war department today asked that in the next few weeks they be on the alert, following newspaper announcement of the draft requirements and when in doubt ask their local exemption board.

This is what each registrant must do:

Go to your exemption board and find out what your red ink serial number is as soon as your board has finished numbering the cards for the big lottery.

Watch for the drawing in Washington. Then find out whether you were drawn and the order in which you must appear. After that find out when to appear for physical examination.

The fate of the registered men will be held in a huge glass bowl, filled with little gelatine capsules.

The number on paper squares in each of these capsules will designate the men drafted.

The final plan of the method of picking the men for the first selective army is before Secretary Baker today.

President Wilson's advisory board has settled upon this method as the fairest that can be devised. Every action is open to the public inspection.

The drawing will probably be held in some large room in the war department. A committee of prominent men will be present as witnesses, testifying to the impartiality of the lottery.

PUTS IN THOROUGH DRAINAGE SYSTEM

Elmer Hutchinson of Arlington Believer in Tile Ditches As Means of Increasing Yields

IMPROVEMENT ON HIS FARM

Writer in Farmers Guide Describes What Is Being Accomplished on Hutchinson's Land

Elmer Hutchinson is portrayed as a firm believer in tile drains because he is putting in a thorough system on his farm near Arlington, in an article in a recent issue of "The Farmers Guide," written by James E. Randall.

Accompanying the article, which deals extensively with farm land drainage and the benefits to be derived, are several pictures, one showing Mr. Hutchinson standing in a field on his farm. Two pictures show the tile laying machine of Frank Meltzer, which was used on the Hutchinson farm in laying the tile. There is also a drawing illustrating the plan of the draining on the Hutchinson farm.

Following a technical discussion of tile draining, the writer speaks more particularly of the Hutchinson farm as a good example, as follows:

The most economical and satisfactory way to ditch your land is by means of a ditching machine. It will make a straight ditch, give more accurate fall and accomplish the work with a saving in time and labor. The ditch does not need to be as wide with the machine as when dug by hand. The illustrations shown are from pictures taken on the farm of Elmer Hutchinson in Rush county, Ind. We spent a very pleasant day there recently and were interested in the work done by the ditching machine of Frank Meltzer, a farmer who became a ditching contractor through his thorough belief in tile underdrainage and a desire to ditch his own farm with his own machine. We do not believe we could show the advantage of using the ditching machine over hand digging in any other way than by describing what we saw on the Hutchinson farm that day.

They were putting in the laterals 80 feet apart, joining a main drain which had been completed the day preceding. The main drain emptied into an open ditch skirting one side of the farm. Fortunately this open ditch was low enough to allow them an outlet nearly 9 feet below the general level of the farm. A rather steep fall was secured for 2 rods back of the outlet and then there was a gradual inclination from a 50-inch depth. The main ditch was made with 7-inch tile, the laterals 5-inch tile. In starting a ditch they dug a trench 11 feet long and the depth of the desired drain, at the main drain for the placing of the excavating portion of the ditching machine in the start of its work. When a hole was dug the machine was backed up to and over it and the digging portion lowered into the same. When the machine was located correctly a transit was screwed into a sight rod on the machine and the engineer took the sight or paddle stacks with cross arms which were placed at various points along the line where the ditch was to go. By moving the cross arms up or down as was necessary to get all cross arms on the same level, a definite guide was secured. The transit was then removed and the engineer took his seat on the side of the machine where he could look over a sight rod all the while the machine was moving forward along the line digging the ditch. By watching over the sight rod keeping the cross arms in line the operator could tell when to raise or lower the excavating wheels to the height or depth needed to keep the bottom of the ditch to the slope giving the desired fall. Of course, when the machine would come to a hilly spot the excavating wheels were

WILL CONSIDER TWO PROPOSALS

County Council of Defense Late Today to Act on Invitation From State Council

CONFERENCE THURSDAY I P. M.

Defense Body Also Invited to Stand "Four-Minute-Men" Campaign in Rushville

The "Four-Minute-Men" campaign has been extended to Rushville. A. L. Gary, chairman of the County Council of Defense, received a request this morning that plans be worked out here by the council for starting the movement, which is calculated to educate the people in regard to the war.

A meeting of the County Council of Defense has been called for four o'clock this afternoon and was to be held in Mr. Gary's office. In addition to considering the proposal to open the "Four-Minute-Men" campaign, the organization will also discuss the invitation from the State Council of county councils in Indianapolis at the house of representatives chamber in the state house, next Thursday afternoon at one o'clock.

The "Four-Minute-Men" campaign was started with the view of reaching the millions of people in the United States who attend the motion picture shows. The campaign has already been worked out in all of the large cities of the United States with great success.

The idea originated with a prominent Chicago business man who was of the opinion that there were many thousands of people who were not reading the newspapers and who, therefore, were not getting a correct conception of the aims and purposes of the United States in the war. He conceived the idea that the best way to reach the people would be through short talks in the motion picture shows where the bulk of the people of the United States find their amusement. The Chicago business man gave up his own business and entered into the work. He made a trip to New York and found that the motion picture people were ready and willing to co-operate.

The campaign derives its name from the fact that the speakers—the "Four-Minute-Men"—are restricted to four minutes in making their talks. In that time they are expected to give a brief, concise statement of the war from the view-

ONE OF 3 RUNAWAYS IS RETURNED TO HOME

Two Other Boys Who Escaped From Knightstown Institution Not Yet Located

BROUGHT IN BY A CONDUCTOR

John Buley, 13, one of the three boys who ran away from the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, near Knightstown on the night of July 4 was brought here last night from Fountaintown by the conductor of an I. & C. car and held until this morning when he was returned to the home. The other two boys, Joe Johnson and Frank Kelly have not been located.

Buley stated that he and his companions "fell out" near Fountaintown when they insisted on stealing something to eat. The boys had been tramping across country and the boy brought here had had enough of the life. He was very hungry and the police gave him a good "feed" last night and he spent the night at the fire station. The boys were wearing overalls over their uniforms so as not to attract attention.

Keep Tomatoes From Contact With the Soil

Stake tomatoes and get more and better fruit is the advice of M. F. Ahearn, associate professor of horticulture, Kansas State Agricultural college.

Tomatoes in the home garden, if properly staked, give the best results. Staking will give satisfactory results with plants that have not been pruned, but the finest tomatoes are secured by pruning the plants to two or three stems.

In tests conducted by the department of horticulture three stems gave the best results. Tomatoes may be trained on a trellis, wires or stakes. Barrel hoops have sometimes been used with good effect.

Tomatoes grown in this way can be sprayed easily, are readily harvested, and there are fewer rotten tomatoes than if they were in contact with the soil. If planted close enough fewer fruits will be sun scalded than if the vines are permitted to grow over the ground. This method is somewhat more expensive than the common method of growing tomatoes, but it will pay the home gardener well.

Christie Says Sufficient Supply is Necessary That Food Animals May Not Suffer

RAPE MAKES GOOD GRASS

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—Farmers were urged to give special attention to the question of supplying sufficient pasturage for their livestock this summer in order that the food supply may not suffer because of oversight in this matter, in a statement issued today by G. I. Christie, state food director.

Christie advised that arrangements be made immediately by all farmers so that if their pastures fail in the next few weeks, a lot may be selected and sowed with rape. This will grow rapidly and furnish a good pasture. Six to eight pounds should be planted for each acre. The seed bed should be well prepared.

Care should be taken also he said, to keep clover and alfalfa pastures in good condition.

"Clover becomes woody and alfalfa, after blooming, is not relished by hogs," he said. "If these pastures are clipped when they need renewing, new leaf growths begin from the plants. This growth is young and tender and the live stock make good gains in weight as the result of eating it."

BANKS LOAN LARGE SUMS ON IT

(By United Press.)

Washington, July 7.—Hard liquor and other spirits took a new lease on life this afternoon when the senate reversed its action of yesterday and voted, 43 to 39, not to prevent withdrawal of spirits in bond.

Action was taken because of the claims that forbidding the withdrawal would amount to confiscation without compensation.

Senator Penrose, Pennsylvania, urging the adoption of the amendment to give the president power to authorize withdrawal of liquor from bond, declared banks have loaned about $80,000,000 on liquor in bond. This money would be lost, he said, unless some provision is made for withdrawal of bonded liquor.

Senator James, Kentucky, said that unless liquor can be withdrawn, distillers will have to pay a tax of $2.20 a gallon on liquor that they cannot sell.

The funeral services will be conducted at the late residence Sunday afternoon at one o'clock and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

Insect Pests Reduce Production of Eggs

Lice and mites by feeding upon laying hens cause a reduction in egg production, says Professor F. R. Fox of the Kansas Agricultural college. The lice live continuously upon the fowl, eating the tissues and causing much annoyance by scratching and irritating the bird. Mites suck the blood of the victim and thus, in addition to annoyance and pain, rob the fowl of needed nourishment.

Lice have biting mouth parts and are therefore easily poisoned. For this purpose blue ointment is the most effective and easiest to apply. A piece about the size of a pea should be well rubbed into the fluff well up into the skin just below the vent. As the lice necessarily must go there for moisture they are readily poisoned. The treatment should be repeated in a week or ten days to assure killing those that hatch later.

Mites are combated in a different manner because of a vital difference in their life habits. They live upon the fowl only at night, sucking the blood. They then leave the bird and hide in cracks, crevices and filth during the day.

Effective control is mostly through sanitation. Give the house a thorough cleaning. Throw out all litter and straw, clean out all filth, brush down the sides, sweep the ceiling and scrub out the house with warm water. Spray thoroughly with coal tar dip, carbolic acid mixed with water or pure kerosene. In applying these solutions a brush may be used, but a spray pump is the most desirable.

Redeem Waste Places—and Men

One great, supreme question is confronting the American people to-day, a question that overshadows all others of the moment, and that is the much discussed one of how to reduce the cost of living.

There is but one answer:

We must redeem the waste places of our country—and the waste men.

Food speculators are responsible for much of it, but waste places and waste men are responsible for even more.

Is it a matter for wonder that food supplies are held at almost famine prices when we are confronted with the spectacle of hundreds of thousands of men tramping the streets of cities and towns doing nothing and producing nothing while within a few hours walk of any of them lie broad acres of land that are idle because there are none to cultivate them?

Let us stop hanging the high cost of living onto the war. It may have had something to do with the skyrocket prices, but very little, because we are exporting less than heretofore, a hundred million dollars worth less in 1916 than in 1915.

We may twist and squirm and wriggle all we please, but we can not escape the fact that the law of supply and demand will regulate the cost of that which we consume.

And, equally, we can not escape the fact that millions of acres of land are idle because hundreds of thousands of men would rather go hungry in a city than live on the fat of the land on a farm—would rather beg at the back doors of city dwellers than to ride in their own automobiles on country roads.

If you want to know why you are paying so dearly for the supplying of your table just step into a car and spend one day in driving around to the farms of this county. Question the farmers and see how many would like to employ more help—if they could get it.

Then go home and use your own brains instead of allowing others to do your thinking for you.

If every idle man in this state could be put to work on a farm during the summer the increase in the yield of foodstuffs for the state would be so staggering as to be almost beyond belief.

And yet we sit around and blame politics, and the poor old overburdened war, and every other thing except the right thing.

Thousands and thousands of men and women and children are living in squalor and want in the cities of our immediate section of the country. They are strong men, capable of enduring any hardship on the farm. But they are not on the farm and probably no one has ever mentioned farm to them.

Talk it—shout it—let it ring from every housetop: Our Lands must be cultivated and made to produce more!

It is the only solution.

For years we have been robbing the farm to feed the city, and the farm has just about reached the point where it can no longer be robbed.

It is time for our leaders to get together and outline a plan whereby we may rob the cities and feed the farm—with men.

Everybody would be the gainer—the farmer most of all.

A Bad Move

The announcement that the democratic party as an organization will seek to control the election of the fifteen delegates-at-large to the state constitutional convention September 18 is manifestly a bad move which the people of Indiana will not approve. The subject has all been threshed out before and when both political parties tested the sentiment over the state, they found that it was preponderously against any interference on the part of the political organizations.

The intent of the law was that the convention delegates should be elected without politics entering in at all. Opinion is divided as to whether or not politics can be kept entirely out of the election, but it is certainly the case that politics will be injected into the election by the activity of the democratic state committee if it carries out its plans formulated at a meeting of the committee Thursday.

The suggestion some weeks ago that both political organizations enter into a compact to select the fifteen delegates-at-large would not have been so productive of bad results as the entrance of one political organization which avows its intention of nominating the whole fifteen delegates and urging their support at the polls by the rank and file of the party they represent.

PUTS IN A THROUGH FARM DRAINAGE SYSTEM

lowered and more dirt would be removed and the reverse was true when a low place was reached.

As the machine made rapid headway along the line a boy was carrying tile and placing them along the top of the ditch while a second was placing them in the ditch. This was a very interesting work. The tile were lowered into the ditch and placed in line close up to the last tile by means of a tile hook, a mallet shaped arrangement made out of an 18-inch long and 3-inch square piece of wood fastened at the middle onto a long pole. Both ends of this 18-inch piece had rounded edges so that either end could be poked into the tile lying on the ground and same lifted up and lowered into the ditch. This work was done rapidly and required no man in the ditch to see that the tile was straight, in fact, the ditch made by the ditching machine was not wide enough for a man to get into. Following the man with the tile hook was the ditching contractor with a pair of long props which he placed down in the ditch, one on one side of the end of the tile, while the other was on the opposite side of the ditch and on the closest end of the tile adjoining. By a scissors-like movement these two props adjusted the tile so that they were in true alignment. It was a simple though clever stunt.

Mr. Hutchinson has been farming on this land for six years and the yield in crops being corn, 60 bushels, wheat, 16 to 18 bushels, and other crops just as poorly. The soil is of a clay loam of a very plastic nature, about the average soil for that locality. Because of the level nature of the land the farmers in that section have not tiled to any great extent, presumably believing their land does not need drainage. This farm will be the only farm in that section that is thoroughly tiled when the work is completed. The lack of tiling may be explained in part, and it is explained entirely to the satisfaction of the writer, by the statement made by Mr. Hutchinson that day while walking over the fields. He said:

"A farmer told me the other day that I was making a great mistake, that there was no need for drainage on my farm, that I was spending money foolishly and would simply ruin my land because the tile would take all the water out of the soil and that the crops would be cut by cause of lack of moisture." It does not seem possible does it that any farmer of today would still have ideas like that when there is so much printed and talked to show him the fallacy of such belief? If this farmer could have seen the water seeping out at the bottom of the ditch in the apparently dry soil and could have seen the stream flowing down in the newly-dug ditch, he would have realized how much excess water there was in that soil, a surplus water that was keeping the production down to 16 to 18 bushels of wheat to the acre and 60 bushels of corn. The ground was rich enough but too cold and dense.

Mr. Hutchinson had the right idea when he decided to tile. He knew that tile underdrainage would open up that soil, and rid it of its surplus water, make it warmer and give the food bed a greater depth, and above all things he knew that it would not take away all the moisture but only that which was over-burdening the soil and not needed by the plant. He knew the theory of capillary action and could see the reason for the fact that tile underdrainage is not only the cure for wetness but also of great assistance in time of drought.

Mr. Hutchinson tried manuring, hog feeding and clovering and while this enriched the soil and gave a slight increase in crop production, he knew it was not what this land really should produce.

Now that he is putting in a thorough system of drainage the writer feels safe in predicting that it will not be many years before this farm is raising 100 bushels of corn to the acre and 40 bushels of wheat. Why do I feel safe in making such a prediction? Simply because hundreds of similar cases have come to my attention and never have I heard of a thorough drainage system that did not pay and pay big. Tile underdrainage is the foundation for the farmer's wealth for through it he secures annual dividends of at least 33 1/3 per cent. It gives increased quantity and increased quality of crops. It is the patriotic duty of every farmer to increase his crop production. If your farm is drained?

How the War Can Be Won From the Skies

Tremendous plans are now being formed to deliver a crippling blow at Germany's military efficiency, not only "putting out her eyes," but spreading havoc by aerial armadas numbered by thousands. Vast sums are to be spent for the establishment of an American air-fleet on a colossal scale, and training-schools for air-pilots are beginning to spring up like mushrooms over night.

During the past three years, there has been in Europe not only an immense development of the art of flying, but a specific evolution of the allied art of the aerial duello.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for July 7th, one of the most interesting articles is a translation from the French of Oscar Ribet, Chief Instructor in a French "School of Pilotage." This article explains in much detail, the tactics of air-fighting. It is illustrated by sketches which visualize the tactics of pursuit, offense, and defense.

This a question that will be asked in many thousands of homes throughout the country during the next few weeks, and there is scarcely any other decision that will exercise more influence upon the future life of your boys and girls.

In this week's DIGEST there is a wealth of information comprised in the many business announcements of American schools. Girls' schools, and colleges for women; boys' military schools; co-educational, and music and art schools; schools of oratory and dramatic art; business and technical schools;

The DIGEST has attained a unique place as an educational medium. Not only do parents recognize its value in this sense, but superintendents, teachers, and students throughout the country know its value also, for it is in daily use as a text-book in current history in thousands of schools.

TRUCKS REFUSE TO WORK AT RIGHT TIME

Building in Connersville Would Have Burned Down but For Horse-Drawn Equipment

CONSIDER MOTOR TRUCK HERE

The city council at the regular meeting Tuesday night discussed the question of motorizing the fire department. At least one member did not favor the proposition unless the horses were retained. The very thing that this member feared would happen occurred in Connersville Thursday night. The two trucks at the central station refused to run and if it had not been for the horse-drawn equipment from the upper fire station the grocery store owned by C. E. Davis would have been destroyed. As it was the store was badly damaged. In mentioning the fire the Connersville News says in part: It was no fault of the force at the central station that they were unable to respond to the call with both wagons. They climbed upon the trucks immediately, started the motors and shifted the gears on both machines. The drivers let in their clutches, but the cars refused to move. Something went wrong with the pinion gears in both machines. They worked for a few minutes but without success. C. S. Roots came to their assistance and offered his service with his car. Six men climbed into the car and took with them five chemical cans and they went to the fire with him.

FINAL VOTE WILL COME NEXT WEEK

Senate Leaders Hope For Settlement of Food Bill Fight Wednesday or Thursday

IMPORTS ARE PROHIBITED

Amendment to Prohibit Beer and Vinous Beverages Voted Down by Majority of 52 to 34

Washington, July 7.—After the disposition of the prohibition section, Senate leaders today hoped to reach an agreement for a final vote upon the food control bill by next Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest. Rejection of the "bone dry" amendment by a vote of 52 to 34 insures that legislation prohibiting manufacturing of intoxicants will be limited to distilled beverages. Whether consumption as well as manufacture of distilled spirits shall cease during the war, a new element injected into the contest at the eleventh hour completely disrupted leaders' well-laid plans and caused the recess for conferences on a compromise.

After roll calls showing a considerable majority against stopping manufacture of beer and wines or giving the President power to suspend their manufacture, the Senate voted, 68 to 10, to prohibit the importation of distilled beverages and then by a vote of 45 to 40 tentatively adopted a provision prohibiting withdrawal of distilled spirits now held in bond for beverage purposes. Both provisions, though voted on separately, are contained in an amendment by Senator Cummins, added to the so-called "administration compromise" and a substitute of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, prohibiting only manufacture of distilled beverages. The substitute was offered for the clause as drafted by the agriculture committee, which would place the question of beer and wine manufacture in the hands of the President.

Many senators who had planned to vote for the Robinson substitute promptly expressed their disapproval of the Cummins amendment, which they declared proposed virtual confiscation of 220,000,000 gallons of distilled beverages in bond without conserving any grain. They pointed out that the government would lose next year between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 in taxes, and asserted that banks with loans upon distilled spirits might be put out of business.

The prohibition forces, however, were openly elated over the possibility of stopping consumption as well as manufacture of whiskey and other "hard" beverages.

The Senate spent Friday in fervent oratory and roll calls on numerous proposals. Friends of prohibition used most of the time in debate, held under the agreement limiting each senator's time, in a vain effort to secure a "bone dry" provision.

Senator Myers of Montana offered the "bone dry" amendment, proposing to add malt, fermented and vinous beverages to the provisions of the Robinson substitute prohibiting manufacture of distilled beverages. The vote on the Myers amendment follows:

APPLICATIONS ARE COMING RAPIDLY

None Will be Received For Officers Training Camp at Fort Harrison After July 14.

CORRECTS WRONG IMPRESSION

Men Under 31 Years of Age Will be Accepted But Those Older Are Much Preferred.

(By United Press.)

Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., July 7.—Applications for admission to the second officers training camp which will open on Aug. 27 are coming in rapidly, according to officers in charge of grading applications today. Final applications will be received a week from today and any which may be sent in after July 15 will receive no consideration. The war department is anxious to have older and more experienced men take the training course at the second period.

Correcting a wrong impression that has gone forth that no men under thirty-one years of age will be accepted at the second officers training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Adjutant General McCain has issued a statement at Washington, making it clear that "intelligent and forceful" men are wanted even if they are under thirty-one years of age and without military training. The army officials are convinced that many desirable young men are holding back their applications because of the misconception of the requirements.

The previous statement of the War Department that it will be difficult for men within the draft age or without military experience to gain admission to the camps has resulted officials believe, in an impression that applications from such men will not be considered. On the contrary, it is pointed out, those of demonstrated executive ability in civilian pursuits, ranging in age from 25 upward, are a type earnestly desired.

Gen McCain's statement was given out through the information committee, with a request that the newspapers give it prominence because success of the second camp series depends on correction of the prevailing misconception. It follows:

"The statement that mature men will be given preference for the second series of officers' training camps seems to have been misunderstood in some quarters. This preference will only apply where qualifications are equal. There is no intention to bar out applications of men under 31. In fact, examining officers have been instructed to regard the ages 25 to 35 as the most suitable. There is also some misunderstanding about the necessity of previous military experience. The government is looking primarily for intelligent and forceful men and military experience, though desirable, is not strictly necessary."

SOCIETY

Edited by Miss Katherine Hitt.

Mrs. Frank Wilson will entertain the members of 500 club Monday afternoon at her home in North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duke entertained with a well appointed dinner yesterday at their home in North Perkins street. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rhodes and son Kenneth of Knights-town were the out-of-town guests.

Ten members of the D. T. club and one guest Mrs. Karl Kennedy, were entertained by Mrs. Roseoe Ward, yesterday afternoon at her home in North Main street. Needlework featured the afternoon. Pretty pink roses made a pretty center for the table, where the course luncheon was served. Mrs. Theodore Abercrombie will be the hostess in two weeks.

Mrs. Clarence Cross was the hostess to the members of the Wednesday afternoon Bridge club, and one table of guests yesterday at her home in North Perkins street. Late in the afternoon, refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. Earl Musselman of Columbus, O., was the only out-of-town guest. Mrs. Fred Caldwell will entertain the club in two weeks.

Several members of the Psi Iota Xi sorority will go to Greensburg next Monday evening for the installation of a new chapter there. The grand officers of the sorority will pass through here in a machine on the way to Greensburg and Miss Lucile Gray will join them and assist in the initiation.

The cozy country home of Mr. and Mrs. James Aldridge southwest of the city was the scene of a happy event Thursday evening when about forty neighbors and friends responded to an invitation from Mrs. Aldridge for a surprise which she skillfully and successfully planned on the occasion of her husband's birthday anniversary. The evening was spent socially and refreshments were served.

Bowls of nasturtiums and sweet-peas were used for a decoration in the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nowlin southeast of New Salem, yesterday, when they entertained with a three course dinner, in honor of the latter's grandmother, Mrs. Peter Bert of Tipton, Ind., the occasion being her eighty-fourth birthday. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Chew of this city were among the guests.

Mrs. Ben Humes was the hostess to a delightfully informal sewing party, yesterday afternoon at her pretty country home southeast of this city, when she entertained in honor of Miss Marian Wilson, of Lexington, Ky., and the Misses Ruth Collins and Lorraine Tuthill of Chicago, the house guests of Mrs. Louis Mauzy. The spacious porch adorned with ferns, rambler roses and other early summer flowers made a pretty setting for the twenty guests, who enjoyed the affair. Late in the afternoon the guests were invited to the dining room, where a delectable luncheon was served, a large basket of pink rambler roses graced the center of the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Henry were the host and hostess to the members of the pitch-in club, last evening at their home in East Seventh street. Those enjoying the bounteous supper were: Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Capp and Dr. and Mrs. Carl Beher. Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Green will entertain the club in two weeks.

Miss Elsie Frazee was completely surprised last evening when a number of her friends came to her home in North Harrison street, the occasion being her birthday. A dainty luncheon was served and then the guests were entertained with a motor trip. The guests included the Misses Laverne Davis, Phyllis Clark of Cadillac, Mich., Harriet Smith, Phyllis Dean, Marie Clark, Dorothy Frazee and Marian Tittsworth, Hubert Alexander, Howard Brecheisen, Clifford Stevens, Clifford Mauzy, Ralph Martin, Waldo Murphy of Cadillac, Mich., Paul Thorpe and Paul Newhouse.

A large french basket of pink rambler roses bedecked the beautifully laid table, when Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mauzy entertained with a six o'clock dinner at their home in North Perkins street last evening. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mauzy, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mauzy and their house guests, the Misses Ruth Collins and Lorraine Tuthill of Chicago and Mrs. George Dehority of Elwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsa Hilligoss will entertain the sixteen members of the F. C. club and four guests, Mr. and Mrs. George Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Chase Ruddle, this evening at their country home southwest of this city. After the social evening, refreshments will be served.

The Misses Beatrice Reeve and Gladys Wallace were the charming hostesses to a number of guests, yesterday afternoon at the home of the latter in North Perkins street, honoring Miss Lillian Wood of Terre Haute, the house guest of Miss Leah Flint. The affair was in the form of a rainbow party, the chosen color scheme of green, lavender and orange being carried out to the last detail in all of the decorations. The large veranda made an ideal gathering place for the guests. Groups of small tables were placed at intervals on the porch, and pretty garden flowers were used in profusion to decorate them. Clever stunts were given by the girls and Miss Marion Scholl was the recipient of the pretty trophy. Late in the afternoon the tables were spread for a course luncheon, in which the color scheme also was prominent. The guests enjoying the delightful affair were: the Misses Leah Flint,

It's Like Buying a Gold Dollar for Ninety Cents

AT ITS PRESENT PRICE ($875 f. o. b. factory) Reo the Fifth is the greatest buy in the market.

WHY, JUST CONSIDER! That was the price when cost of manufacture was vastly less than now.

AND YOU'VE SEEN prices advance all along the line since then.

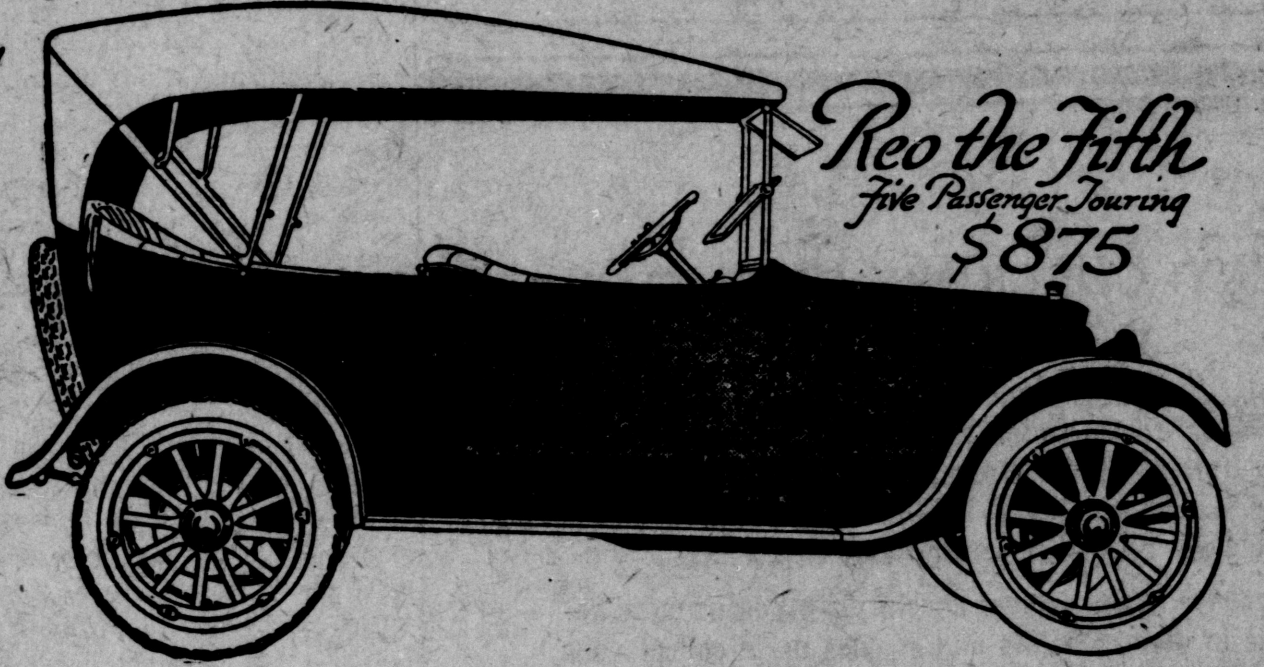

THE REO FOLK have steadfastly refused to add a dollar to the list price of Reos as long as there was any margin of profit at all at standard prices.

BUT WE ARE WARNED that there's no certainty how long this price can be maintained.

COSTS ARE INCREASING all along the line and there's no relief in sight. So it may be necessary any day to add $75 or $100 to the present price of all Reo models. Others have—Reo may have to.

SO ONLY WAY is to secure your Reo now—order and set a definite date for delivery.

Amusements

The Lyric offers the drama, "Somebody Lied" for the first picture tonight. Priscilla Dean and Harry Carter are featured. The second is a comedy, "The Strongest Army in the World." Monday the three reel drama, "The Forest Nymph," and the comedy, "Tom's Tramping Tramps," will be shown.

"Chicken Casey," a human interest drama featuring Dorothy Dalton and Howard Hickman is the first picture on tonight's program at the Princess. The picture was produced by Thomas H. Ince and is an absorbing story. In addition the comedy, "The Grab Bag Bride," will be shown. Monday Ethel Clayton will be seen in the feature drama, "The Web of Desire."

The Gem will show the usual program tonight. The first is a comedy entitled, "Shorty Trails the Moonshiners." The second is also a comedy, "Jerry's Triple Alliance." The last is a drama, "The Heart of a Doll" in which the Fairbanks twins are featured. William Courtenay will be seen Monday at the Gem in the Pathe Gold Rooster play entitled "The Recoil," in which he is supported by Lillian Greuze, the famous star of the New York French theatre. The story is one dealing with the way in which the government expects the secret service men to do their duty no matter how pressing their personal affairs may be. How a girl's brother is arrested on circumstantial evidence for the murder of her brute of a husband, is told in a thrilling manner.

BREAK SEEMS IMMINENT

Berlin Feels That Trouble With Argentina Is Certain

(By United Press.)
Amsterdam, July 7.—Diplomatic circles in Berlin believe a break between Argentina and Germany is imminent, if it has not already occurred, according to dispatches from Berlin today. The Argentine minister conferred with Foreign Minister Zimmermann and Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg. Later he visited the Spanish and Chilean ambassadors.

Simple Methods For the Control of Clothes Moths

Clothes moths, injurious to woollens and furs, may be controlled by use of simple means, according to George A. Dean, professor of entomology in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Repellents will not protect fabrics if they have become infested. Even to depend upon such repellents as camphor, moth balls or tobacco will prove more or less unsatisfactory. Castoff woollens should not be stored in dark closets or in attics, where they will breed insects that feed on animal matter. The floors and corners in closets should be kept clean.

Articles in daily use, such as carpets, rugs and clothing, are not likely to become seriously infested. Woolen garments, furs and plumes stored in dark closets, wardrobes or bureau drawers suffer most. The greatest damage is done in the summer, when woollens and furs are not in use and the moths are most active.

If such garments and materials that are not to be used are carefully brushed, beaten, sunned and placed in tight pasteboard boxes, the joints of which are sealed with gummed paper, they will go through the summer in comparative safety. Such articles may also be protected by inclosing in paper bags and hanging free of the floor in a closet or in the attic. Clothing put away in a closet or a wardrobe should be brushed and sunned before storage and carefully examined at least once a month throughout the summer.

Trunks or boxes in which clothing is to be stored for the summer should be cleaned and treated with gasoline. The clothing to be packed away in them should first be beaten, brushed and sunned. In addition to this, garments should be fumigated with carbon bisulphide at least once a month from April to August.

—Edmund Gartin and John Knacht visited in Indianapolis on business today.

NEW PEACE PLAN EXPECTED TODAY

German Chancellor Thought Likely to Announce Policy of No Annexation and no Indemnities

HAS LONG ADHERED TO THIS

Amsterdam, July 7.—German Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg is to announce Germany's adherence to the policy of no annexation and no indemnities in a speech in the reichstag today, according to reports here.

Germany, it is understood, looks to the speech as affording immediate opportunity for opening peace negotiations.

The chancellor, it was reported, has long supported the no annexation, no indemnities principle, but because of opposition from other officials has made no announcement of his stand. The fact that a separate peace with Russia seems to have failed, has evidently caused the German government to decide on a new peace announcement.

DR STEELE TO PREACH

A Few Summer Hints for Home Gardner to Follow

Department of Agriculture Horticulturists Outline Principles For Making a Success of the Home Vegetable Patch.

VI. Still Time to Plant Certain Vegetables in This Section.

It is Not Too Late to Plant

Sweet potatoes, squash, okra, beets, cucumbers, seed for late cabbage, sweet corn, squash, pepper plants (2d planting), eggplant plants (2d planting), string beans, lima beans.

Sweet potatoes, beets, squash, cabbage, okra, pepper, eggplant, string beans Lima beans sweet corn and cucumbers still may be planted in this section (marked Zone C on the Department's zone planting map for vegetables), say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. These vegetables may be grown in ground occupied by early maturing crops such as peas, kale, early cabbage, spinach and radishes. There is ample time for sweet potatoes to mature, and there is no better way to add to the winter food stock of the family than by growing this root crop. Late cabbage is another profitable crop to grow for winter use. Beets, squash, cucumbers and the other vegetables mentioned may be planted now with good chances of success.

There is, of course, considerable variation within the region for which this advice is given. It may well be that the possibility for planting successfully certain of the crops mentioned has passed in the more southerly sections.

Now is the time for every gardener to cultivate his garden thoroughly. If weeds have been allowed to start they should be destroyed at once as they are robbing the plants of needed moisture. Work the ground until a fine mulch is formed. Nothing will save moisture for the use of the crops like a soil mulch. Very few weeds will come up from this time on if they are thoroughly cleaned out now.

The following cultural suggestions are made for the crops which may yet be planted with fair chances of success throughout most of the zone.

Sweet potatoes. It is desirable to have a row or two of sweet potatoes in the home garden. Set the plants in ridges 3 to 4 feet apart. Space the plants 14 to 18 inches apart. About seventy-five plants will be required for a hundred-foot row.

Beets. Beets may be planted at any time from now on. The young, tender beets make fine greens and every gardener should make an immediate planting so there will be an ample supply. Sow in rows 15 to 18 inches apart for hard cultivation or 2 to 2½ feet apart for horse cultivation. The plants should be thinned to 4 to 5 inches apart in the rows.

Squash. The bush varieties should be planted in hills four feet apart each way, and the running varieties 8 to 10 feet apart each way. One-half ounce of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row of either the bush or running varieties.

Cucumber (for home use only). Sow the seeds in rows 4 to 5 feet apart. The plants should be about 15 inches apart, but the seed should be sowed much thicker, the plants being thinned later. A half ounce of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row.

Eggplants. Set the plants 18 to 24 inches apart in rows 2½ to 3 feet apart. A dozen good, healthy plants ought to furnish enough fruit for the average-sized family.

Peppers. Set the plants 15 to 18 inches apart in rows 1½ to 3 feet apart. A dozen plants should be sufficient.

Okra. The rows should be 3 to 4 feet apart for the dwarf varieties and 4 to 5 feet apart for the tall kinds. Sow the seed a few inches apart and thin the plants to 18 inches to 2 feet apart. Seven ounces of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row.

String beans. Plant in rows 2½ feet apart for horse or hand cultivation, and 3 to 4 inches apart in the rows. A pint of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row.

Lima beans, pole. Plant in hills 3 to 4 feet apart for horse or hand cultivation. A half pint of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row. Bush limas should be planted in rows 2½ feet apart for hand cultivation, or 3 feet apart for horse cultivation. Space the seeds 6 to 10 inches apart in the rows.

Seed for late cabbage. Sow in beds well enriched with rotted stable manure. Water the beds daily, and set the plants in the garden when ready to move.

Sweet corn. Plant closely in drills three feet apart and thin to 10 or 14 inches in the rows. If preferred, a dozen seeds may be planted in hills 3 feet apart each way, and the plants thinned to four in each hill. Corn should be planted in well-prepared rich land.

Chairmen and other members of the county councils of defense, editors of the state and as many others interested as can be prevailed upon to attend, are invited to attend the conference Thursday afternoon, called by the State Council of defense.

The plans contemplated by the state and national councils for the guidance of county councils will be gone over in detail at that time. Sammies Under Pershing Likely to be Placed Between English and French Near St. Quentin

LAND HAS BEEN RE-BUILT

If This is Place Americans Are to be Sent Then Offensive Will Start Soon

By PERRY ARNOLD
(United Press Foreign Editor)

New York, July 7.—If, as reported from Washington, Major General Pershing's expeditionary army is to be given a place between the French and British armies in the western theater of war, they will have one of the most important sections of the whole western front under their care.

No one knows exactly the present junction point of the French and British armies, but it is somewhere around St. Quentin and LaFere. The most southerly point mentioned in British official statements as having been fought over by Field Marshal Haig's forces in Fayet, about one mile north of St. Quentin.

Savy, not more than two miles further south around St. Quentin, has frequently been mentioned in the French War Office statements. It was captured by French troops early in April, and presumably is occupied by them now.

St. Quentin is an important key-point in the Douai-Cambrai-LaFere line of the German defense on the western front. The British and French offensive of March and April brought the Allied forces to within a mile of the city. It was at the time of the offensive, apparently one of the main objectives of the drive by which the French and British followed up Hindenburg's famous "strategic retreat." Then, when the city was within actual sight of the Allied troops, a weakness in the German defense developed elsewhere along the Franco-British front caused a change in plans, and the drive on St. Quentin was temporarily held up pending blows struck at the weaker spots.

As far as official statements for the past three months have shown, the Allied line in this particular sector now runs something like this:

From Gonnelleu, to Villers Guislain, to Epehy, to Ronsoy, Hargicourt, Villeret, Le Verguier, Pontu, Maissemy, Fresnoy le Petit, Fayet, Selenoy, Savy, Chauny, Coucy le Chateau, Landricourt. All these towns are held by the French and British troops.

Supposing that this is the section picked for the American expeditionary army, it seems reasonable to presume there will be another drive at the basic city of St. Quentin carried out by the Americans.

Poultry Bulletin Says They Make Profitable Gains If Kept Constantly on It

BRAN AND SHORTS VERY GOOD

Declares It Is Mistake To Let Chickens Shift for Themselves When A Few Weeks Old

Lafayette, Ind., July 7.—Growing chicks will make the cheapest and most profitable gains if a dry mash is kept before them at all times, according to a statement issued by the Poultry Department of Purdue university today.

"If used in a self feeder, a mixture of bran and shorts of equal parts by weight, is very satisfactory," the statement declares. "Meat scraps should be added at the rate of one pound to every two pounds of bran and shorts. While meat scraps seem costly, it will save more than its cost in grain and will keep the chicks growing rapidly."

"On many farms, sour milk or buttermilk will make an excellent, cheap substitute for meat scraps. On the Purdue poultry farms the chicks may receive no water until they are several weeks old in order that they may be forced to consume a large amount of sour milk, which is not only a good food but a disease preventative."

"No more common mistakes are made than by leaving chicks to shift for themselves after they are a few weeks old. Grain or mash should be kept before them all summer. Comfortable, dry houses, do a great deal toward checking losses. These houses should be placed where the chicks will have access to growing forage."

By following the above system, Purdue has lost less than ten per cent of nearly 3,000 chicks this year. Wherever a group of people interested in poultry raising agree to meet at some public building, Purdue will send an expert poultryman to advise regarding the summer's work.

St. Quentin and the city of LaFere, the latter located approximately twelve miles to the south, are the foundations on which Hindenburg built his famous "line." The German front in this particular section swings in a great arc from St. Quentin to LaFere, below Laon and then sharply upward again along the front where the French have recently won their wonderful success in the Aisne drive, to Rheims.

From this description, it will be seen that penetration of the German lines anywhere along this are not only would menace the German grip on all of Flanders and Belgium to the north, but likewise would give opportunity for a tremendous flanking movement on the German lines to the south.

For this reason some of the fiercest fighting of the war has made the St. Quentin sector bloody ground on the western front. Directly ahead of the city lies some of the most terribly ravished ground of all that which the Germans relinquished in their "strategic retreat." Dispatches received in April and May from William Philip Simms and Henry Wood, the United Press staff correspondents with the British and French armies, told vividly of the destruction wreaked upon the villages of Vermand, Ham, St. Simon, Savy and others in the path of this retreating horde.

By the time American troops arrive there—if the Washington reports are accurate—they will, however, find this wasted land all rebuilt. New roads have been constructed and the great jagged holes by shells smoothed over in part at least.

The St. Quentin sector is ideally located for the "American front." Two big trunk lines of railways will give full access to it, the land is gently level and drained by the Somme River. Beyond St. Quentin the land held by the Germans becomes more hilly.

—Mr. and Mrs. William Frank of Connersville and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frank of this city motored to Indianapolis yesterday and spent the day.

COMPANY B. TO BE PUT THROUGH FEDERAL INSPECTION NEXT WEEK

Maj. James V. Heidt of the Thirty-Sixth Infantry Will Likely be Here on Next Monday

COMPANY ROSTER COMPLETED

Shows 150 Men Have Qualified and Are Ready to be Mustered Into Federal Service

HOPES FOR GOOD SHOWING

Capt. Kiplinger Believes Weekly Drill Will Help to Bring Company B to Top Rank

The roster of Company B, First separate battalion, Fourth Regiment, has been completed by Capt. Kiplinger and the next step will be the federal inspection, preparatory to being mustered into federal service. The company has 150 names on the roster, but will lose several men in case the members of the company now at Fort Harrison get commissions in the new army.

Maj. James V. Heidt of the Thirty-sixth Infantry has arrived in Indiana to start an inspection of the companies of the new Fourth regiment. Major Heidt will likely be in Rushville Monday to inspect the local company. Other companies of the regiment are located at Decatur, Huntington, Indianapolis, Marion, Bedford, Evansville, Columbus and Madison. A machine gun and supply company are also in Indianapolis.

Capt. Kiplinger hopes the local company will make a good showing at the inspection. He is confident that Co. B will be in the top rank as the weekly drills have put the company in good shape.

It was reported from Washington a few weeks ago that the national guard companies of Indiana and Kentucky would probably be mobilized at Anniston, Ala. Information contained in a dispatch from Washington today is that the guard companies of the two states will probably be sent to some place in Texas. There will be three guard mobilization centers in Texas.

The roster of the company follows:

John H. Kiplinger
Allan H. Blackledge
Floyd O. Gallimore
Harry R. Fritter
William L. Christopher

FEDERAL AGENTS GOING TO RICHMOND

Expected To Arrive Today to Investigate Alleged Improper Methods of Registration

COMPLAINT BY STATE AGENT

(By United Press.)
Richmond, Ind., July 7.—Agents of the federal government were expected today in Richmond to investigate reports of alleged improper methods of preparing Wayne county's list of men registered for the selective draft. The investigation is the result of a complaint by Jesse Eschbach, state conscription agent who complained to the federal authorities against the method employed by M. W. Kelley, Wayne county clerk in preparing the draft lists.

Kelley refused to renumber the cards serially as requested and is alleged to have told Eschbach that "if he wanted it done do it yourself." Eschbach has asked that the cards be renumbered in the proper manner.

FIVE ROUTES TO BE DISCONTINUED

Besides 2 Rushville and 1 Arlington, Carthage and Glenwood Routes to be Abandoned.

ROUTES TO BE RENUMBERED

John Holmes, Carrier on No. 27 at Glenwood, Transferred to Vacancy on No. 13 at New Salem.

It has been definitely established that five rural routes will be discontinued in Rush county, beginning a week from next Monday when the new order reorganizing the rural route system of the county goes into effect.

In addition to the two routes out of Rushville and one out of Arlington being abandoned, route No. 27 out of Glenwood and route No. 22 out of Carthage will be discontinued.

John Holmes, carrier on route No. 27 from the Glenwood office, will be transferred to what is now route No. 13 out of New Salem where there is a vacancy due to the resignation of a carrier. It is not known what disposition will be made of Will T. Hill, carrier on route No. 22, whether he will be relieved or transferred to another route. The carrier on the Arlington route which was discontinued, John Alsmann, will be transferred to Centerville.

When the new order takes effect the routes will not be numbered as they are now—beginning with No. 1 out of Rushville and running consecutively through the twenty-four routes in the county. Instead the routes leaving each postoffice in the county will be a separate unit. For instance, New Salem routes Nos. 13 and 14 will be New Salem routes Nos. 1 and 2. The same rule will apply to every office in the county.

All of the mail carriers in the county are familiarizing themselves with their new routes so that they will be able to carry them the first day after the new order takes effect. Each carrier has the routing of his new route so that he can cover it before time for carrying the mail over it.

Postmaster Hunt has given all carriers out of the Rushville office a printed slip which he asks them to leave in every box which is changed to a new route. The patron is notified of the new number of his route and is requested to notify all newspapers and magazines they receive and persons with whom they correspond. The slip says:

"Commencing July 16, your mail will be delivered by Rushville, Ind., Route No. —. If your address is changed, notify your papers and magazines and also all persons with whom you correspond, giving them your old address and also the new address. Do this at once so that your mail will not be delayed.

"Also fill out the slip which will be put in your box in a few days, giving all names of your family and persons receiving mail in your box. This is important because the carrier must know at once the names of his patrons. Return slip to the mail carrier or to the postoffice when you receive it."

MEN OF MILITARY AGE RESPONSIBLE

It Is Up To Them to Ascertain Whether or Not They Have Been Conscribed for Service

ARE URGED TO BE ON ALERT

Requested to Find New Number, Watch For Numbers Drawn and Report for Examination

BY WEBB MILLER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, July 7.—America's men of draft age will be responsible for ascertaining whether or not they are drawn for conscription. Hence the war department today asked that in the next few weeks they be on the alert, following newspaper announcement of the draft requirements and when in doubt ask their local exemption board.

This is what each registrant must do:

Go to your exemption board and find out what your red ink serial number is as soon as your board has finished numbering the cards for the big lottery.

Watch for the drawing in Washington. Then find out whether you were drawn and the order in which you must appear. After that find out when to appear for physical examination.

The fate of the registered men will be held in a huge glass bowl, filled with little gelatine capsules.

The number on paper squares in each of these capsules will designate the men drafted.

The final plan of the method of picking the men for the first selective army is before Secretary Baker today.

President Wilson's advisory board has settled upon this method as the fairest that can be devised. Every action is open to the public inspection.

The drawing will probably be held in some large room in the war department. A committee of prominent men will be present as witnesses, testifying to the impartiality of the lottery.

PUTS IN THOROUGH

DRAINAGE SYSTEM

Elmer Hutchinson of Arlington Believer in Tile Ditches As Means of Increasing Yields

IMPROVEMENT ON HIS FARM

Writer in Farmers Guide Describes What Is Being Accomplished on Hutchinson's Land

Elmer Hutchinson is portrayed as a firm believer in tile drains because he is putting in a thorough system on his farm near Arlington, in an article in a recent issue of "The Farmers Guide," written by James E. Randall.

Accompanying the article, which deals extensively with farm land drainage and the benefits to be derived, are several pictures, one showing Mr. Hutchinson standing in a field on his farm. Two pictures show the tile laying machine of Frank Meltzer, which was used on the Hutchinson farm in laying the tile. There is also a drawing illustrating the plan of the draining on the Hutchinson farm.

Following a technical discussion of tile draining, the writer speaks more particularly of the Hutchinson farm as a good example, as follows:

The most economical and satisfactory way to ditch your land is by means of a ditching machine. It will make a straight ditch, give more accurate fall and accomplish the work with a saving in time and labor. The ditch does not need to be as wide with the machine as when dug by hand. The illustrations shown are pictures taken on the farm of Elmer Hutchinson in Rush county, Ind. We spent a very pleasant day there recently and were interested in the work done by the ditching machine of Frank Meltzer, a farmer who became a ditching contractor through his thorough belief in tile underdrainage and a desire to ditch his own farm with his own machine. We do not believe we could show the advantage of using the ditching machine over hand digging in any other way than by describing what we saw on the Hutchinson farm that day.

They were putting in the laterals 80 feet apart, joining a main drain which had been completed the day preceding. The main drain emptied into an open ditch skirting one side of the farm. Fortunately this open ditch was low enough to allow them an outlet nearly 9 feet below the general level of the farm. A rather steep fall was secured for 2 rods back of the outlet and then there was a gradual inclination from a 50-inch depth. The main ditch was made with 7-inch tile, the laterals 5-inch tile. In starting a ditch they dug a trench 11 feet long and the depth of the desired drain, at the main drain for the placing of the excavating portion of the ditching machine in the start of its work. When a hole was dug the machine was backed up to and over it and the digging portion lowered into the same. When the machine was located correctly a transit was screwed into a sight rod on the machine and the engineer took the sight or paddle sticks with cross arms which were placed at various points along the line where the ditch was to go. By moving the cross arms up or down as was necessary to get all cross arms on the same level, a definite guide was secured. The transit was then removed and the engineer took his seat on the side of the machine where he could look over a sight rod all the while the machine was moving forward along the line digging the ditch. By watching over the sight rod keeping the cross arms in line the operator could tell when to raise or lower the excavating wheels to the height or depth needed to keep the bottom of the ditch to the slope given by the desired fall of ground when the machine would come to a definite stop.

WILL CONSIDER

TWO PROPOSALS

County Council of Defense Late Today to Act on Invitation From State Council

CONFERENCE THURSDAY I. P. M.

Defense Body Also Invited to Stand "Four-Minute-Men" Campaign in Rushville

The "Four-Minute-Men" campaign has been extended to Rushville. A. L. Gary, chairman of the County Council of Defense, received a request this morning that plans be worked out here by the council for starting the movement, which is calculated to educate the people in regard to the war.

A meeting of the County Council of Defense has been called for four o'clock this afternoon and was to be held in Mr. Gary's office. In addition to considering the proposal to open the "Four-Minute-Men" campaign, the organization will also discuss the invitation from the State Council of Defense to attend a conference of county councils in Indianapolis at the house of representatives chamber in the state house, next Thursday afternoon at one o'clock.

The "Four-Minute-Men" campaign was started with the view of reaching the millions of people in the United States who attend the motion picture shows. The campaign has already been worked out in all of the large cities of the United States with great success.

The idea originated with a prominent Chicago business man who was of the opinion that there were many thousands of people who were not reading the newspapers and who, therefore, were not getting a correct conception of the aims and purposes of the United States in the war. He conceived the idea that the best way to reach the people would be through short talks in the motion picture shows where the bulk of the people of the United States find their amusement. The Chicago business man gave up his own business and entered into the work. He made a trip to New York and found that the motion picture people were ready and willing to co-operate.

The campaign derives its name from the fact that the speakers—the "Four-Minute-Men"—are restricted to four minutes in making their talks. In that time they are expected to give a brief, concise statement of the war from the viewpoint of the United States.

The other two boys, Joe Johnson and Frank Kelly, have not been located.

Baley stated that he and his companions "fell off" near Fountaintown when they insisted on stealing something to eat. The boys had been tramping across country and the boy brought here had had enough of the life. He was very hungry and the police gave him a good meal last night and he spent the night in the jail. He said that he was very sorry and would like to go home.

Keep Tomatoes From Contact With the Soil

Stake tomatoes and get more and better fruit is the advice of M. F. Ahern, associate professor of horticulture, Kansas State Agricultural college.

Tomatoes in the home garden, if properly staked, give the best results. Staking will give satisfactory results with plants that have not been pruned, but the finest tomatoes are secured by pruning the plants to two or three stems.

In tests conducted by the department of horticulture three stems gave the best results. Tomatoes may be trained on a trellis, wires or stakes. Barrel hoops have sometimes been used with good effect.

Tomatoes grown in this way can be sprayed easily, are readily harvested, and there are fewer rotten tomatoes than if they were in contact with the soil. If planted close enough fewer fruits will be sun scalded than if the vines are permitted to grow over the ground. This method is somewhat more expensive than the common method of growing tomatoes, but it will pay the home gardener well.

URGES FARMERS TO WATCH PASTURES

Christie Says Sufficient Supply is Necessary That Food Animals May Not Suffer

RAPE MAKES GOOD GRASS

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—Farmers were urged to give special attention to the question of supplying sufficient pasturage for their livestock this summer in order that the food supply may not suffer because of oversight in this matter, in a statement issued today by G. I. Christie, state food director.

Christie advised that arrangements be made immediately by all farmers so that if their pastures fail in the next few weeks, a lot may be selected and sowed with rape. This will grow rapidly and furnish a good pasture. Six to eight pounds should be planted for each acre. The seed bed should be well prepared.

Care should be taken also, he said, to keep clover and alfalfa pastures in good condition.

"Clover becomes woody and alfalfa, after blooming, is not relished by hogs," he said. "If these pastures are clipped when they need renewing, new leaf growths begin from the plants. This growth is young and tender and the livestock make good gains in weight as the result of eating it."

SENATE REVERSES YESTERDAY'S ACTION

Votes 43 to 39 Not to Prevent Withdrawals of Spirits in Bond—Confiscation Without Pay.

BANKS LOAN LARGE SUMS ON IT

Washington, July 7.—Hard liquor and other spirits took a new lease on life this afternoon when the senate reversed its action of yesterday and voted, 43 to 39, not to prevent withdrawal of spirits in bond.

Action was taken because of the claims that forbidding the withdrawal would amount to confiscation without compensation.

Senator Penrose, Pennsylvania, urging the adoption of the amendment to give the president power to authorize withdrawal of liquor from bond, declared banks have loaned about $80,000,000 on liquor in bond. This money would be lost, he said, unless some provision is made for withdrawal of bonded liquor.

Senator James, Kentucky, said that unless liquor can be withdrawn, distillers will have to pay a tax of $2.20 a gallon on liquor that they cannot sell.

—Mr. and Mrs. Will Lockridge and son Roland of Newcastle motored through Rushville yesterday enroute to Greensburg where they will spend a few days with relatives.

WILSON ASKS WITHDRAWAL

(By United Press.) Washington, July 7.—President Wilson has asked the withdrawal of the amendment to the food bill which would prevent members of the advisory committee to the Council of National Defense from selling to the government, according to a letter received by a member of the member of the senate agriculture committee today.

CLEOPATRA PRIEST DIES

Miss Cleopatra Priest, 50 years old, died last night at 10:30 o'clock at her home near Gowdy, following a long illness from cancer. She had been in a critical condition for some time and her death was not unexpected. She is survived by two brothers, Joseph and William Priest. The funeral services will be conducted at the late residence Sunday afternoon at one o'clock and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

Insect Pests Reduce

Production of Eggs

Lice and mites by feeding upon laying hens cause a reduction in egg production, says Professor F. B. Fox of the Kansas Agricultural college. The lice live continuously upon the fowl, eating the tissues and causing much annoyance by scratching and irritating the victim and thus, in addition to annoyance and pain, rob the fowl of needed nourishment.

Lice have biting mouth parts and are therefore easily poisoned. For this purpose blue ointment is the most effective and easiest to apply. A piece about the size of a pea should be well rubbed into the stuff well up into the skin just below the vent. As the lice necessarily must go there for moisture they are readily poisoned. The treatment should be repeated in a week or ten days to assure killing those that hatch later.

Mites are combated in a different manner because of a vital difference in their life habits. They live upon the fowl only at night, sucking the blood. They then leave the bird and hide in cracks, crevices and filth during the day.

Effective control is mostly through sanitation. Give the house a thorough cleaning. Throw out all litter and straw, clean out all filth, brush down the sides, sweep the ceiling and scrub out the house with warm water. Spray thoroughly with coal tar dip, carbolic acid mixed with water or pure kerosene. In applying these solutions a brush may be used, but a spray pump is the most desirable.

Redeem Waste Places—and Men

One great, supreme question is confronting the American people today, a question that overshadows all others of the moment, and that is the much discussed one of how to reduce the cost of living. There is but one answer: We must redeem the waste places of our country—and the waste men. Food speculators are responsible for much of it, but waste places and waste men are responsible for even more. Is it a matter for wonder that food supplies are held at almost famine prices when we are confronted with the spectacle of hundreds of thousands of men tramping the streets of cities and towns doing nothing and producing nothing, while within a few hours walk of any of them lie broad acres of land that are idle because there are none to cultivate them?

Let us stop hanging the high cost of living onto the war. It may have had something to do with the skyrocket prices, but very little, because we are exporting less than heretofore, a hundred million dollars worth less in 1916 than in 1915.

We may twist and squirm and wriggle all we please, but we can not escape the fact that the law of supply and demand will regulate the cost of that which we consume.

And, equally, we can not escape the fact that millions of acres of land are idle because hundreds of thousands of men would rather go hungry in a city than live on the fat of the land on a farm—would rather beg at the back doors of city dwellers than to ride in their own automobiles on country roads.

If you want to know why you are paying so dearly for the supplying of your table just step into a car and spend one day in driving around to the farms of this country. Question the farmers and see how many would like to employ more help—if they could get it.

Then go home and use your own brains instead of allowing others to do your thinking for you.

If every idle man in this state could be put to work on a farm during the summer the increase in the yield of foodstuffs for the state would be so staggering as to be almost beyond belief.

And yet we sit around and blame politics, and the poor old overburdened war, and every other thing except the right thing.

Thousands and thousands of men and women and children are living in squalor and want in the cities of our immediate section of the country. They are strong men, capable of enduring any hardship on the farm. But they are not on the farm, and probably no one has ever mentioned farm to them.

Talk it—shout it—let it ring from every house: Our lands must be cultivated and made to produce more!

It is the only solution.

For years we have been robbing the farm to feed the city, and the farm has just about reached the point where it can no longer be robbed.

It is time for our leaders to get together and outline a plan whereby we may rob the cities and feed our own men.

Everybody would like to see the

A Bad Move
The announcement that the democratic party as an organization will seek to control the election of the fifteen delegates-at-large to the state constitutional convention September 18 is manifestly a bad move which the people of Indiana will not approve. The subject has all been threshed out before and when both political parties tested the sentiment over the state, they found that it was preponderantly against any interference on the part of the political organizations.

The intent of the law was that the convention delegates should be elected without politics entering in at all. Opinion is divided as to whether or not politics can be kept entirely out of the election, but it is certainly the case that politics will be injected into the election by the activity of the democratic state committee if it carries out its plans formulated at a meeting of the committee Thursday.

The suggestion some weeks ago that both political organizations enter into a compact to select the fifteen delegates-at-large would not have been so productive of bad results as the entrance of one political organization which avows its intention of nominating the whole fifteen delegates and urging their support at the polls by the rank and file of the party they represent.

lowered and more dirt would be removed and the reverse was true when a low place was reached.

As the machine made rapid headway along the line a boy was carrying tile and placing them along the top of the ditch while a second was placing them in the ditch. This was a very interesting work. The tile were lowered into the ditch and placed in line close up to the last tile by means of a tile hook, a mallet shaped arrangement made out of an 18-inch long and 3-inch square piece of wood fastened at the middle onto a long pole. Both ends of this 18-inch piece had rounded edges so that either end could be poked into the tile lying on the ground and same lifted up and lowered into the ditch. This work was done rapidly and required no man in the ditch to see that the tile was straight, in fact, the ditch made by the ditching machine was not wide enough for a man to get into. Following the man with the tile hook was the ditching contractor with a pair of long props which he placed down in the ditch, one on one side of the end of the tile, while the other was on the opposite side of the ditch and on the closest end of the tile adjoining. By a scissors-like movement these two props adjusted the tile so that they were in true alignment. It was a simple though clever stunt.

Mr. Hutchinson has been farming on this land for six years and the yield in crops being corn, 60 bushels, wheat, 16 to 18 bushels, and other crops just as poorly. The soil is of a clay loam of a very plastic nature, about the average soil for that locality. Because of the level nature of the land the farmers in that section have not tiled to any great extent, presumably believing their land does not need drainage. This farm will be the only farm in that section that is thoroughly tiled when the work is completed. The lack of tiling may be explained in part, and it is explained entirely to the satisfaction of the writer, by the statement made by Mr. Hutchinson that day while walking over the fields. He said:

"A farmer told me the other day that I was making a great mistake, that there was no need for drainage on my farm, that I was spending money foolishly, and would surely ruin my land by doing so. He would cause of lack of moisture." It does not seem possible does it that any farmer of today would still have ideas like that when there is so much printed and talked to show him the fallacy of such belief? If this farmer could have seen the water seeping out at the bottom of the ditch in the apparently dry soil and could have seen the stream flowing down in the newly-dug ditch, he would have realized how much excess water there was in that soil, a surplus water that was keeping the production down to 16 to 18 bushels of wheat to the acre and 60 bushels of corn. The ground was rich enough but too cold and dense.

Mr. Hutchinson had the right idea when he decided to tile. He knew that tile underdrainage would open up that soil, and rid it of its surplus water, make it warmer and give the food bed a greater depth, and above all things he knew that it would not take away all the moisture but only that which was over-burdening the soil and not needed by the plant. He knew the theory of capillary action and could see the reason for the fact that tile underdrainage is not only the cure for wetness but also of great assistance in time of drought.

Mr. Hutchinson tried manuring, hog feeding and clovering and while this enriched the soil and gave a slight increase in crop production, he knew it was not what this land really should produce.

Now that he is putting in a thorough system of drainage the writer feels safe in predicting that it will not only produce a great increase in crop production but also a great increase in the value of the land.

How the War Can Be Won From the Skies

Tremendous plans are now being formed to deliver a crippling blow at Germany's military efficiency, not only "putting out her eyes," but spreading havoc by aerial armadas numbered by thousands. Vast sums are to be spent for the establishment of an American air-fleet on a colossal scale, and training-schools for air-pilots are beginning to spring up like mushrooms over night.

During the past three years, there has been in Europe not only an immense development of the art of flying, but a specific evolution of the allied art of the aerial duello.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for July 7th, one of the most interesting articles is a translation from the French of Oscar Ribet, Chief Instructor in a French "School of Pilotage." This article explains in much detail, the tactics of air-fighting. It is illustrated by sketches which visualize the tactics of pursuit, offense, and defense.

There are many other features of unusual interest in "The Digest" this week, among which are:

"Which Is the School for My Boy and Girl?"

This a question that will be asked in many thousands of homes throughout the country during the next few weeks, and there is scarcely any other decision that will exercise more influence upon the future life of your boys and girls.

In this week's DIGEST there is a wealth of information comprised in the many business announcements of American schools. Girls' schools, and colleges for women; boys' military schools; co-educational, and music and art schools; schools of oratory and dramatic art; business and technical schools; vocational and professional schools; schools for backward children. All are represented in this number.

The DIGEST has attained a unique place as an educational medium. Not only do parents recognize its value in this sense, but superintendents, teachers, and students throughout the country know its value also, for it is in daily use as a text-book in current history in thousands of schools.

Inquiries are invited from teachers and principals as to how THE DIGEST will ease the burden of their school-work.

TRUCKS REFUSE TO WORK AT RIGHT TIME

Building in Connersville Would Have Burned Down but For Horse-Drawn Equipment

CONSIDER MOTOR TRUCK HERE

The city council at the regular meeting Tuesday night discussed the question of motorizing the fire department. At least one member did not favor the proposition unless the horses were retained. The very thing that this member feared would happen occurred in Connersville Thursday night. The two trucks at the central station refused to run and if it had not been for the horse drawn equipment from the upper fire station the grocery store, owned by C. E. Davis would have been destroyed. As it was the store was badly damaged. In mentioning the fire the Connersville News says in part: It was no fault of the force at the central station that they were unable to respond to the call with both wagons. They climbed upon the trucks immediately, started the motors and shifted the gears on both machines. The drivers let in their clutches, but the cars refused to move. Something went wrong with the pinion gears in both machines. They worked for a few minutes but without success. C. S. Roots came to their assistance and offered his service with his car. Six men climbed into the car and took with them five chemical cans and they went to the fire with him.

FINAL VOTE WILL COME NEXT WEEK

Senate Leaders Hope For Settlement of Food Bill Fight Wednesday or Thursday

IMPORTS ARE PROHIBITED

Amendment to Prohibit Beer and Vinous Beverages Voted Down by Majority of 52 to 34

Washington, July 7.—After the disposition of the prohibition section, Senate leaders today hoped to reach an agreement for a final vote upon the food control bill by next Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest.

Rejection of the "bone dry" amendment by a vote of 52 to 34 insures that legislation prohibiting manufacturing of intoxicants will be limited to distilled beverages. Whether consumption as well as manufacture of distilled spirits shall cease during the war, a new element injected into the contest at the eleventh hour completely disrupted leaders' well-laid plans and caused the recess for conferences on a compromise.

After roll calls showing a considerable majority against stopping manufacture of beer and wines or giving the President power to suspend their manufacture, the Senate voted, 68 to 10, to prohibit the importation of distilled beverages and then by a vote of 45 to 40 tentatively adopted a provision prohibiting withdrawal of distilled spirits now held in bond for beverage purposes.

Both provisions, though voted on separately, are contained in an amendment by Senator Cummins, added to the so-called "administration compromise" and a substitute of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, prohibiting only manufacture of distilled beverages. The substitute was offered for the clause as drafted by the agriculture committee, which would place the question of beer and wine manufacture in the hands of the President.

Many senators who had planned to vote for the Robinson substitute promptly expressed their disapproval of the Cummins amendment, which they declared proposed virtual confiscation of 220,000,000 gallons of distilled beverages in bond without conserving any grain. They pointed out that the government would lose next year between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 in taxes, and asserted that banks with loans upon distilled spirits might be put out of business.

The prohibition forces, however, were openly elated over the possibility of stopping consumption as well as manufacture of whiskey and other "hard" beverages.

The Senate spent Friday in fervent oratory and roll calls on numerous proposals. Friends of prohibition used most of the time in debate, held under the agreement limiting each senator's time, in a vain effort to secure a "bone dry" provision.

Senator Myers of Montana offered the "bone dry" amendment, proposing to add malt, fermented and vinous beverages to the provisions of the Robinson substitute prohibiting manufacture of distilled beverages. The vote on the Myers amendment follows:

APPLICATIONS ARE COMING RAPIDLY

None Will be Received For Officers Training Camp at Fort Harrison After July 14.

CORRECTS WRONG IMPRESSION

Men Under 31 Years of Age Will be Accepted But Those Older Are Much Preferred.

(By United Press.)

Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., July 7.—Applications for admission to the second officers training camp which will open on Aug. 27 are coming in rapidly, according to officers in charge of grading applications today. Final applications will be received a week from today and any which may be sent in after July 15 will receive no consideration. The war department is anxious to have older and more experienced men take the training course at the second period.

Correcting a wrong impression that has gone forth that no men under thirty-one years of age will be accepted at the second officers training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Adjutant General McCain has issued a statement at Washington, making it clear that "intelligent and forceful" men are wanted even if they are under thirty-one years of age and without military training. The army officials are convinced that many desirable young men are holding back their applications because of the misconception of the requirements.

The previous statement of the War Department that it will be difficult for men within the draft age or without military experience to gain admission to the camps has resulted officials believe, in an impression that applications from such men will not be considered. On the contrary, it is pointed out, those of demonstrated executive ability in civilian pursuits, ranging in age from 25 upward, are a type earnestly desired.

Gen McCain's statement was given out through the information committee, with a request that the newspapers give it prominence because success of the second camp series depends on correction of the prevailing misconception. It follows:

"The statement that mature men will be given preference for the second series of officers' training camps seems to have been misunderstood in some quarters. This preference will only apply where qualifications are equal. There is no intention to bar out applications of men under 31. In fact, examining officers have been instructed to regard the ages 25 to 35 as the most suitable. There is also some misunderstanding about the necessity of previous military experience. The government is looking primarily for intelligent and forceful men and military experience, though desirable, is not strictly necessary."

Edited by Miss Katherine Hill.

Mrs. Frank Wilson will entertain the members of 500 club Monday afternoon at her home in North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duke entertained with a well appointed dinner yesterday at their home in North Perkins street. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rhodes and son Kenneth of Knights-town were the out-of-town guests.

Ten members of the D. T. club and one guest Mrs. Karl Kennedy, were entertained by Mrs. Rosecoe Ward, yesterday afternoon at her home in North Main street. Needlework featured the afternoon. Pretty pink roses made a pretty center for the table, where the course luncheon was served. Mrs. Theodore Abercrombie will be the hostess in two weeks.

Mrs. Clarence Cross was the hostess to the members of the Wednesday afternoon Bridge club, and one table of guests yesterday at her home in North Perkins street. Late in the afternoon, refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. Earl Musselman of Columbus, O., was the only out-of-town guest. Mrs. Fred Caldwell will entertain the club in two weeks.

Several members of the Psi Iota Xi sorority will go to Greensburg next Monday evening for the installation of a new chapter there. The grand officers of the sorority will pass through here in a machine on the way to Greensburg and Miss Lucile Gray will join them and assist in the initiation.

The cozy country home of Mr. and Mrs. James Aldridge southwest of the city was the scene of a happy event Thursday evening when about forty neighbors and friends responded to an invitation from Mrs. Aldridge for a surprise which she skillfully and successfully planned on the occasion of her husband's birthday anniversary. The evening was spent socially and refreshments were served.

Bowls of nasturtiums and sweet-peas were used for a decoration in the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nowlin southeast of New Salem, yesterday, when they entertained with a three course dinner, in honor of the latter's grandmother, Mrs. Peter Bert of Tipton, Ind., the occasion being her eighty-fourth birthday. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Chew of this city were among the guests.

Mrs. Ben Humes was the hostess to a delightfully informal sewing party, yesterday afternoon at her pretty country home southeast of this city, when she entertained in honor of Miss Marian Wilson, of Lexington, Ky., and the Misses Ruth Collins and Lorraine Tutbill of Chicago, the house guests of Mrs. Louis Maury. The spacious porch adorned with ferns, rambler roses and other early summer flowers made a pretty setting for the twenty guests, who enjoyed the affair. Late in the afternoon the guests were invited to the dining room, where a delectable luncheon was served, a large basket of pink rambler roses graced the center of the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Henry were the host and hostess to the members of the pitch-in club, last evening at their home in East Seventh street. Those enjoying the bounteous supper, were: Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Capp and Dr. and Mrs. Carl Beher. Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Green will entertain the club in two weeks.

Miss Elsie Frazee was completely surprised last evening when a number of her friends came to her home in North Harrison street, the occasion being her birthday. A dainty luncheon was served and then the guests were entertained with a motor trip. The guests included the Misses Laverne Davis, Phyllis Clark of Cadillac, Mich., Harriet Smith, Phyllis Dean, Marie Clark, Dorothy Frazee and Marian Tittsworth, Hubert Alexander, Howard Brecheisen, Clifford Stevens, Clifford Mauzy, Ralph Martin, Waldo Murphy of Cadillac, Mich., Paul Thorpe and Paul Newhouse.

A large french basket of pink rambler roses bedecked the beautifully laid table, when Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mauzy entertained with a six o'clock dinner at their home in North Perkins street last evening. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mauzy, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Maury and their house guests, the Misses Ruth Collins and Lorraine Tutbill of Chicago and Mrs. George Dehority of Elwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsa Hilligoss will entertain the sixteen members of the F. C. club and four guests, Mr. and Mrs. George Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Chase Ruddle, this evening at their country home southwest of this city. After the social evening, refreshments will be served.

The Misses Beatrice Reeve and Gladys Wallace were the charming hostesses to a number of guests, yesterday afternoon at the home of the latter in North Perkins street, honoring Miss Lillian Wood of Terre Haute, the house guest of Miss Leah Flint. The affair was in the form of a rainbow party, the chosen color scheme of green, lavender and orange being carried out to the last detail in all of the decorations. The large veranda made an ideal gathering place for the guests. Groups of small tables were placed at intervals on the porch, and pretty garden flowers were used in profusion to decorate them. Clever stunts were given by the girls and Miss Marion Scholl was the recipient of the pretty trophy. Late in the afternoon the tables were spread for a course luncheon, in which the color scheme also was prominent. The guests enjoying the delightful affair were: the Misses Leah Flint,

WHY, JUST CONSIDER! That was the price when cost of manufacture was vastly less than now.

"Chicken Casey," a human interest drama featuring Dorothy Dalton and Howard Hickman is the first picture on tonight's program at the Princess. The picture was produced by Thomas H. Ince and is an absorbing story. In addition the comedy, "The Grab Bag Bride," will be shown. Monday Ethel Clayton will be seen in the feature drama, "The Web of Desire."

The Gem will show the usual program tonight. The first is a comedy entitled, "Shorty Trails the Moonshiners." The second is also a comedy, "Jerry's Triple Alliance." The last is a drama, "The Heart of a Doll" in which the Fairbanks twins are featured. William Courtenay will be seen Monday at the Gem in the Pathe Gold Rooster play entitled "The Recoil," in which he is supported by Lillian Greuze, the famous star of the New York French theatre. The story is one dealing with the way in which the government expects the secret service men to do their duty no matter how pressing their personal affairs may be. How a girl's brother is arrested on circumstantial evidence for the murder of her brute of a husband, is told in a thrilling manner.

Simple Methods For the Control of Clothes Moths

Clothes moths, injurious to woolsens and furs, may be controlled by use of simple means, according to George A. Dean, professor of entomology in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Repellents will not protect fabrics if they have become infested. Even to depend upon such repellents as camphor, moth balls or tobacco will prove more or less unsatisfactory. Castoff woolsens should not be stored in dark closets or in attics, where they will breed insects that feed on animal matter. The floors and corners in closets should be kept clean.

Articles in daily use, such as carpets, rugs and clothing, are not likely to become seriously infested. Woolen garments, furs and plumes stored in dark closets, wardrobes or bureau drawers suffer most. The greatest damage is done in the summer, when woolsens and furs are not in use and the moths are most active.

If such garments and materials that are not to be used are carefully brushed, beaten, sunned and placed in tight pasteboard boxes, the joints of which are sealed with gummed paper, they will go through the summer in comparative safety. Such articles may also be protected by inclosing in paper bags and hanging free of the floor in a closet or in the attic. Clothing put away in a closet or wardrobe should be brushed and sunned before storage and carefully examined at least once a month throughout the summer.

Trunks or boxes in which clothing is to be stored for the summer should be cleaned and treated with gasoline. The clothing to be packed away in them should first be beaten, brushed and sunned. In addition to this, garments should be fumigated with carbon bisulphide at least once a month from April to August.

NEW PEACE PLAN EXPECTED TODAY

German Chancellor Thought Likely to Announce Policy of No Annexation and no Indemnities

HAS LONG ADHERED TO THIS

Amsterdam, July 7.—German Chancellor Von Bethmann Hollweg is to announce Germany's adherence to the policy of no annexation and no indemnities in a speech in the reichstag today, according to reports here.

Germany, it is understood, looks to the speech as affording immediate opportunity for opening peace negotiations.

The chancellor, it was reported, has long supported the no annexation, no indemnities principle, but because of opposition from other officials has made no announcement of his stand. The fact that a separate peace with Russia seems to have failed, has evidently caused the German government to decide on a new peace announcement.

A Few Summer Hints for Home Gardner to Follow

Department of Agriculture Horticulturists Outline Principles For Making a Success of the Home Vegetable Patch.

VI. Still Time to Plant Certain Vegetables in This Section.

It is Not Too Late to Plant

Sweet potatoes, squash, okra, beets, cucumbers, seed for late cabbage, sweet corn, squash, pepper plants (2d planting), eggplant plants (2d planting), string beans, lima beans.

Sweet potatoes, beets, squash, cabbage, okra, pepper, eggplant, string beans Lima beans sweet corn and cucumbers still may be planted in this section (marked Zone C on the Department's zone planting map for vegetables), say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. These vegetables may be grown in ground occupied by early maturing crops such as peas, kale, early cabbage, spinach and radishes. There is ample time for sweet potatoes to mature, and there is no better way to add to the winter food stock of the family than by growing this root crop. Late cabbage is another profitable crop to grow for winter use. Beets, squash, cucumbers and the other vegetables mentioned may be planted now with good chances of success.

There is, of course, considerable variation within the region for which this advice is given. It may well be that the possibility for planting successfully certain of the crops mentioned has passed in the more southerly sections.

Now is the time for every gardener to cultivate his garden thoroughly. If weeds have been allowed to start they should be destroyed at once as they are robbing the plants of needed moisture. Work the ground until a fine mulch is formed. Nothing will save moisture for the use of the crops like a soil-mulch. Very few weeds will come up from this time on if they are thoroughly cleaned out now.

The following cultural suggestions are made for the crops which may yet be planted with fair chances of success throughout most of the zone.

Sweet potatoes. It is desirable to have a row or two of sweet potatoes in the home garden. Set the plants in ridges 3 to 4 feet apart. Space the plants 14 to 18 inches apart. About seventy-five plants will be required for a hundred-foot row.

Beets. Beets may be planted at any time from now on. The young, tender beets make fine greens and every gardener should make an immediate planting so there will be an ample supply. Sow in rows 15 to 18 inches apart for hard cultivation or 2 to 2½ feet apart for horse cultivation. The plants should be thinned to 4 to 5 inches apart in the rows.

Squash. The bush varieties should be planted in hills four feet apart each way, and the running varieties 8 to 10 feet apart each way. One-half ounce of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row of either the bush or running varieties.

Cucumber (for home use only). Sow the seeds in rows 4 to 5 feet apart. The plants should be about 15 inches apart, but the seed should be sowed much thicker, the plants being thinned later. A half ounce of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row.

Eggplants. Set the plants 18 to 24 inches apart in rows 2½ to 3 feet apart. A dozen good, healthy plants ought to furnish enough fruit for the average-sized family.

Peppers. Set the plants 15 to 18 inches apart in rows 1½ to 3 feet apart. A dozen plants should be sufficient.

Okra. The rows should be 3 to 4 feet apart for the dwarf varieties and 4 to 5 feet apart for the tall kinds. Sow the seed a few inches apart and thin the plants to 18 inches to 2 feet apart. Seven ounces of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row.

String beans. Plant in rows 2½ feet apart for horse or hand cultivation, and 3 to 4 inches apart in the rows. A pint of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row.

Lima beans, pole. Plant in hills 3 to 4 feet apart for horse or hand cultivation. A half pint of seed is sufficient for a hundred-foot row. Bush limas should be planted in rows 2½ feet apart for hand cultivation, or 3 feet apart for horse cultivation. Space the seeds 6 to 10 inches apart in the rows.

Seed for late cabbage. Sow in beds well enriched with rotted stable manure. Water the beds daily, and set the plants in the garden when ready to move.

Sweet corn. Plant closely in drills three feet apart and thin to 10 or 14 inches in the rows. If preferred, a dozen seeds may be planted in hills 3 feet apart each way, and the plants thinned to four in each hill. Corn should be planted in well-prepared rich land.

DEFENSE COUNCIL WILL CONSIDER 2 PROPOSALS

Point of the United States. The question will be put up to the county council this afternoon to determine if the campaign will be carried out here. It will be necessary first to get the consent of the motion picture show owners to allow the speakers privilege to talk to the audiences at the "movies."

Chairmen and other members of the county councils of defense, editors of the state and as many others interested as can be prevailed upon to attend, are invited to attend the conference Thursday afternoon, called by the State Council of defense.

The plans contemplated by the state and national councils for the guidance of county councils will be gone over in detail at that time. An effort to secure a member of the national council, or a representative thereof from Washington, for the conference, is now under way. Governor James P. Goodrich will be present, and the regular meeting of the State Council will be postponed from Wednesday until Thursday, so that they, too, may be present without the necessity of an extra special trip to the capital.

It is believed by the state council that a fuller realization of the exigencies of the present international situation may be brought home to

The importance and comprehensive nature of preparing the state, by county units for war, the conservation of food and co-ordination of all social and industrial activities will be presented by speakers with authority and information.

TROOPS WILL GET IMPORTANT PLACE

Sammies Under Pershing Likely to be Placed Between English and French Near St. Quentin

LAND HAS BEEN RE-BUILT

If This is Place Americans Are to be Sent Then Offensive Will Start Soon

By PERRY ARNOLD
(United Press Foreign Editor)

New York, July 7.—If, as reported from Washington, Major General Pershing's expeditionary army is to be given a place between the French and British armies in the western theater of war, they will have one of the most important sections of the whole western front under their care.

No one knows exactly the present junction point of the French and British armies, but it is somewhere around St. Quentin and LaFere. The most southerly point mentioned in British official statements as having been fought over by Field Marshal Haig's forces in Fayet, about one mile north of St. Quentin.

Savy, not more than two miles further south around St. Quentin, has frequently been mentioned in the French War Office statements. It was captured by French troops early in April, and presumably is occupied by them now.

St. Quentin is an important key-point in the Douai-Cambrai-LaFere line of the German defense on the western front. The British and French offensive of March and April brought the Allied forces to within a mile of the city. It was at the time of the offensive, apparently one of the main objectives of the drive by which the French and British followed up Hindenburg's famous "strategic retreat." Then, when the city was within actual sight of the Allied troops, a weakness in the German defense, developed elsewhere along the Franco-British front caused a change in plans, and the drive on St. Quentin was temporarily held up pending blows struck at the weaker spots.

As far as official statements for the past three months have shown, the Allied line in this particular sector now runs something like this:

From Gonnelleu, to Villers Guislain to Epehy, to Ronsoy, Hargicourt, Villeret, Le Verguier, Pontu, Maissemy, Fresnoy le Petit, Fayet, Selenoy, Savy, Chauny, Coucy le Chateau, Landricourt. All these towns are held by the French and British troops.

Supposing that this is the section picked for the American expeditionary army, it seems reasonable to presume there will be another drive at the basic city of St. Quentin carried out by the Americans.

DRY MASH GOOD FOR CHICKENS

Poultry Bulletin Says They Make Profitable Gains If Kept Constantly on It

BRAN AND SHORTS VERY GOOD

Declares It Is Mistake To Let Chickens Shift for Themselves When A Few Weeks Old

Lafayette, Ind., July 7.—Growing chicks will make the cheapest and most profitable gains if a dry mash is kept before them at all times, according to a statement issued by the Poultry Department of Purdue university today.

"If used in a self feeder, a mixture of bran and shorts of equal parts by weight, is very satisfactory," the statement declares. "Meat scraps should be added at the rate of one pound to every two pounds of bran and shorts. While meat scraps seem costly, it will save more than its cost in grain and will keep the chicks growing rapidly."

"On many farms, sour milk or buttermilk will make an excellent, cheap substitute for meat scraps. On the Purdue poultry farms the chicks may receive no water until they are several weeks old in order that they may be forced to consume a large amount of sour milk, which is not only a good food but a disease preventative."

"No more common mistakes are made than by leaving chicks to shift for themselves after they are a few weeks old. Grain or mash should be kept before them all summer. Comfortable, dry houses, do a great deal toward checking losses. These houses should be placed where the chicks will have access to growing forage."

By following the above system, Purdue has lost less than ten per cent of nearly 3,000 chicks this year. Wherever a group of people interested in poultry raising agree to meet at some public building, Purdue will send an expert poultryman to advise regarding the summer's work.

St. Quentin and the city of LaFere, the latter located approximately twelve miles to the south, are the foundations on which Hindenburg built his famous, "line." The German front in this particular section swings in a great arc from St. Quentin to LaFere, below Laon and then sharply upward again along the front where the French have recently won their wonderful success in the Aisne drive, to Rheims.

From this description, it will be seen that penetration of the German lines anywhere along this arc not only would menace the German grip on all of Flanders and Belgium to the north, but likewise would give opportunity for a tremendous flanking movement on the German lines to the south.

For this reason some of the fiercest fighting of the war has made the St. Quentin sector bloody ground on the western front. Directly ahead of the city lies some of the most terribly ravished ground of all that which the Germans relinquished in their "strategic retreat." Dispatches received in April and May from William Philip Simms and Henry Wood, the United Press staff correspondents with the British and French armies, told vividly of the destruction wreaked upon the villages of Vermand, Ham, St. Simon, Savy and others in the path of this retreating horde.

By the time American troops arrive there—if the Washington reports are accurate—they will, however, find this wasted land all rebuilt. New roads have been constructed and the great jagged holes by shells smoothed over in part at least.

The St. Quentin sector is ideally located for the "American front." Two big trunk lines of railways will give full access to it, the land is gently level and drained by the Somme River. Beyond St. Quentin the land held by the Germans becomes more hilly.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frank of Gonnelleu and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frank of LaFere returned to Indianapolis yesterday and spent
